

Mercier, Désiré Joseph

By Luc Courtois

Désiré Joseph Mercier (1851-1926)

This is an oil portrait of Désiré Mercier, dating back to 1894.

Janssen, J.: Désiré Joseph Mercier, oil on canvas, 1894; source: the Institute of Philosophy of KU Leuven.

Courtesy of the Institute of Philosophy of KU Leuven.

Mercier, Désiré Félicien-François-Joseph

(Cardinal Désiré-Joseph Mercier)

Cardinal Archbishop of Mechelen (Belgium)

Born 21 November 1851 in Braine-l'Alleud, Belgium

Died 22 January 1926 in Brussels, Belgium

Summary

After his pastoral letter Patriotisme et endurance, which had a worldwide impact, the Cardinal Archbishop of Mechlin, Désiré Mercier, was seen both in Belgium and abroad as the incarnation of civil resistance to the German occupation of Belgium.

Table of contents

1 Biographical Sketch

2 World War One

3 Later Years

Selected Bibliography Citation

Biographical Sketch

After his secondary studies (humanités) at the College Saint-Rombaut of Malines (1863-1868), the young French-speaking Désiré Joseph Mercier (1851-1926) began his priestly career. He studied philosophy at the minor seminary of Malines (1868-1870) and theology at Maline's major seminary (1870-1873), then left to complete his academic training at the University of Louvain. Ordained during his university studies on 4 April 1874, he subsequently returned to Malines in 1877, having earned a licence in theology. He was then placed in charge of teaching philosophy at the minor seminary and soon after was named spiritual director of the seminarians.

In 1882, after five years dedicated to philosophical studies and the religious training of future priests, the Belgian bishops designated Mercier to set up the Chair in Thomistic Philosophy that Pope Leo XIII \(1810-1903\) had requested be established at Louvain. Having succeeded in attracting some students of worth and bolstered by the success of his teaching, Mercier soon obtained the creation of a veritable Higher Institute of Philosophy. In only a few years, the institution had achieved international repute, professing an "open" Thomism.

Appointed Archbishop of Malines on 7 February 1906 and cardinal on 15 April 1907, Mercier proved to be an avant-garde prelate in many domains. Before the war, he supported Christian democracy and Christian trade unions, encouraged the beginnings of the liturgical movement and Catholic Action, and intervened to attenuate excesses in the antimodernist repression striking progressive Catholic intellectuals.

Finally, after the war, he lent invaluable support to Joseph Cardijn \(1882-1967\), founder of the Christian Working Youth Organization (Jeunesse Ouvrière Chrétienne, JOC), and played a pioneering role in the area of ecumenism. Toward this goal he initiated the "Conversations of Malines", an attempt at rapprochement with the Anglican Church. Due to his public stance against the Germans during World War One, the archbishop of Malines came to be identified as the soul of civil resistance.

World War One

For Mercier, action in the natural order was not only commanded by the religious repercussions of mixed questions, he considered that interest in "patriotic things" was a duty and a virtue in itself. What was fundamentally at stake here was the intuition - very modern - that a Catholic cannot ignore the affairs of the city and that he must do his part in building a more just world. He had already written his pastoral letter La Piété patriotique (Patriotic Piety) guided by this intuition in 1910 and continued on to courageously resist German occupation during World War I.

In December 1914, noting the first signs of discouragement among the population and the success of German propaganda in legitimizing the violation of Belgian neutrality and the abuses committed against the civil populations, Mercier published his celebrated pastoral letter Patriotisme et endurance (released beginning in early January 1915). The letter had an immense impact both in Belgium and abroad.

Engaged in a struggle against the invader and despite threats and external pressures against him – particularly from a Vatican that was very worried about the Catholic Church's neutrality – the prelate maintained his intransigent policy to the end, at least in the public eye, for Mercier was actually convinced of the need for a negotiated peace and was willing to act discreetly to that end. Yet for over four years, serving as the veritable moral incarnation of occupied Belgium, Mercier never wavered in denouncing the occupying power's abuses and publicly stimulating the civic ardour of his fellow-citizens. Whereas ordinarily Mercier could have been expected to be arrested, his high profile and his popularity among German Catholics ensured his continuing liberty, except for a short period in January 1915.

Later Years

After the conflict's end, the considerable prestige that Mercier enjoyed in the Allied countries was further reinforced by a two-month tour of the United States, where the triumphant welcome he received is all the more remarkable given the country's Protestant majority. However, he sought in vain to exploit that influence in defending Catholic interests during the Treaty of Versailles negotiations, for example by obtaining a mandate in Palestine for Belgium or a solution to the Roman question.

Suffering from cancer, the Archbishop died in Brussels on 23 January 1926. The day before his death, when Charles Lindley Wood, Viscount Halifax \(1839-1934\) came to say goodbye, the cardinal in agony gave him his episcopal ring, a token of the reconciliation that was beginning.

Luc Courtois, Université catholique de Louvain

Selected Bibliography

- Boudens, Robrecht: Kardinaal Mercier volgens het archief van de Wilhelmstrasse \(Cardinal Mercier, according to the archives of the Wilhelmstrasse\), in:

Collationes 2, 1972, pp. 505-545.

- De Volder, Jan: Benoît XV et la Belgique durant la Grande Guerre, Brussels, 1996: Institut historique belge de Rome.
- De Volder, Jan: Kardinaal verzet. Mercier, de Kerk en de oorlog van 14-18 \(The resistance of a cardinal. Mercier, the Church and the war of 14-18\), Tielt, 2014: Lannoo.
- De Volder, Jan: La résistance d'un cardinal. Le cardinal Mercier, l'Eglise et la guerre 14-18, Namur, 2016: Fidélité.
- Haag, Henri: Le cardinal Mercier devant la guerre et la paix. À propos d'un ouvrage récent, in: Revue d'histoire ecclésiastique 79/3-4, 1984, pp. 709-783.
- Lademacher, Horst: Kardinal Mercier, das deutsche Generalgouvernement und die Politik des Heiligen Stuhls, in: Droege, Georg / Schöller, Peter \(eds.\): Landschaft und Geschichte. Festschrift für Franz Petri zu seinem 65. Geburtstag am 22. Februar 1968, Bonn 1970 Röhrscheid, pp. 325-358.
- Meseberg-Haubold, Ilse: Der Widerstand Kardinal Merciers gegen die deutsche Besetzung Belgiens, 1914-1918. Ein Beitrag zur politischen Rolle des Katholizismus im Ersten Weltkrieg, Frankfurt a. M., 1982: Lang.

Citation

Luc Courtois: Mercier, Désiré Joseph, in: 1914-1918-online. International Encyclopedia of the First World War, ed. by Ute Daniel, Peter Gatrell, Oliver Janz, Heather Jones, Jennifer Keene, Alan Kramer, and Bill Nasson, issued by Freie Universität Berlin, Berlin 2017-11-15. DOI: 10.15463/ie1418.10207/1.1

External Links

- Begraefnis van Kardinaal Mercier \(Retrospective on Cardinal Mercier's life and a report on his funeral in Dutch\), 1926 \(European Film Gateway\) \(Video\)
- Boutwood, Arthur \(ed.\): A shepherd among wolves, war-time letters of Cardinal Mercier,

London 1919 \(Internet Archive\) \(Primary Source\)

- Kellogg, Charlotte: Mercier, the fighting cardinal of Belgium, 1920 \(Internet Archive\) \(Article\)
- Laveille, Auguste Pierre: A life of Cardinal Mercier, 1928 \(Internet Archive\) \(Article\)
- Mercier, Cardinal Désiré Joseph: A message from Cardinal Mercier, 1917 \(Internet Archive\) \(Article\)
- Mercier, Cardinal Désiré Joseph: Cardinal Mercier, pastorals, letters, allocutions, 1914-1917, 1917 \(Internet Archive\) \(Article\)
- Mercier, Cardinal Désiré Joseph: Cardinal Mercier's Own Story, 1920 \(Internet Archive\) \(Article\)
- Mercier, Cardinal Désiré Joseph: Charity towards our enemies, from a pastoral letter, 1917 \(Internet Archive\) \(Article\)
- Mercier, Cardinal Désiré Joseph: La correspondance de s.e. le cardinal Mercier avec le gouvernement général allemand pendant l'occupation, 1914-1918, 1919 \(Internet Archive\) \(Article\)

Metadata

Regional Section(s)

Western Europe > Belgium

Thematic Section(s)

Home Front

Subjects

Society > Everyday life, civilian war experience > Occupation, society

Society > Religion and ethics > Mobilisation, religious

Society > Religion and ethics > Religious institutions

Author Keywords

Mercier; Catholic Church; Belgium

GND Subject Headings

Mercier, Désiré

LC Subject Headings

Mercier, Désiré, 1851-1926

Rameau Subject Headings

Mercier, Désiré-Joseph \(1851-1926\)

Key Person(s)

XIII, Pope Leo; Cardijn, Joseph; Charles Lindley Wood, Viscount Halifax

Key Location(s)

Braine-l'Alleud; Brussels; Louvain; Mechelen

Title

Mercier, Désiré Joseph

Author(s)

Luc Courtois

Article Type

Encyclopedic Entry

Classification Group

Persons