

Zimmermann Telegram

By Stefan Rinke

Summary

Named for its author, the German minister of foreign affairs Arthur Zimmermann, the so-called Zimmermann Telegram threw a disturbing light on German wartime diplomacy in Mexico and it catalyzed the United States' entry into the First World War.

Table of contents

1 The Publication

2 The Background

3 Response

Selected Bibliography

Citation

The Publication

Press outlets around the world published the diplomatic correspondence between the German foreign office and its representative in Mexico on 1 March 1917, causing a major earthquake in public opinion worldwide. Arthur Zimmermann \(1864-1940\), the German minister of foreign affairs, authored the note and forwarded it to Mexico via the embassy in Washington. The British Secret Service deciphered it and found that it contained alarming news: Germany, after returning to unrestricted submarine warfare that February, was willing to join forces with Mexico should the United States decide to enter the war on the side of the Allies. In that case, Germany wanted to generously support the Mexicans and offer them Texas, New Mexico, and Arizona as war booty. Japan was to be invited to join the alliance as well. Mexican President Venustiano Carranza \(1859-1920\) rejected the offer, which would have meant leading a suicidal war against the overpowering United States. Carranza, however, tried not to be harsh with the German representative because he wanted to keep the possibility for further cooperation alive.

The Background

Contemporaries and historians have, since the moment of its publication, wondered about the motives for Zimmermann's incredible blunder, which he admitted publicly on 3 March 1917. A closer look at the German-Mexican secret rapprochement in 1915-1916 is necessary to understand it. Already in 1915, Carranza himself had confidentially explored the possibility of cooperation with Germany in an initiative against neighboring Guatemala and British Honduras. The negotiations were continued in 1916 and a military joint action remained on the agenda. At some point the Mexican side suggested an action against the United States. Zimmermann implicitly built upon these negotiations in his telegram. In addition, in 1916, the German Empire had already looked for closer ties to Japan, which stood in antagonism to the U.S. – much like Mexico, albeit for different reasons. There were Mexican-Japanese talks about cooperation, too. Thus, Mexico became an important hub for Germany's global strategy during the war.

Response

In the United States, the publication of the telegram at first caused disbelief. A majority believed it was yet another forgery of Allied propaganda. When Zimmermann himself, however, confirmed its authenticity, Americans were outraged. The Zimmermann telegram contributed to changing public opinion in the U.S. and preparing it for entry into the First World War a few weeks later.

Stefan Rinke, Freie Universität Berlin

Selected Bibliography

- Boghardt, Thomas: The Zimmermann telegram. Intelligence, diplomacy, and America's entry into World War I, Annapolis, 2012: Naval Institute Press.
- Katz, Friedrich: The secret war in Mexico. Europe, the United States, and the Mexican Revolution, Chicago, 1981: University of Chicago Press.
- Nassua, Martin: Gemeinsame Kriegführung, gemeinsamer Friedensschluss. Das Zimmermann-Telegramm vom 13. Januar 1917 und der Eintritt der USA in den 1. Weltkrieg, Frankfurt a. M.; New York, 1992: P. Lang.
- Tuchman, Barbara W.: The Zimmermann telegram, New York, 1966: Macmillan.

Citation

Stefan Rinke: Zimmermann Telegram, in: 1914-1918-online. International Encyclopedia of the First World War, ed. by Ute Daniel, Peter Gatrell, Oliver Janz, Heather Jones, Jennifer D. Keene, Alan Kramer, and Bill Nasson, issued by Freie Universität Berlin, Berlin 2014-10-08.

DOI: 10.15463/ie1418.10424

External Links

- Document Deep Dive: What Did the Zimmermann Telegram Say?, 2012 \(Smithsonian.com\) \(Article\)
- The Zimmerman Telegram \(NSA\) \(Article\)
- zur Gathen, Joachim von: Zimmermann Telegram, Cryptologia 31/2, 2007 \(Bonn-Aachen International Center for Information Technology\) \(Article\)

Metadata

Regional Section(s)

Latin America

Latin America > Central America and Caribbean > Mexico

Thematic Section(s)

Power

Subjects

Politics, law > International relations > Alliances, alliance systems

Politics, law > International relations > Espionage

Politics, law > International relations > Treaties and agreements, other

The media > Public opinion

Author Keywords

Diplomacy; Secret War; Mexico; Germany; United States; Japan

GND Subject Headings

[Zimmermann, Arthur ; Weltkrieg \[1914-1918\]](#)

LC Subject Headings

Zimmermann, Arthur, 1864-1940 \(nb2002047243, PersonalName\); World War, 1914-1918--Diplomatic history

Rameau Subject Headings

Zimmermann, Artur \(1864-1940\) ; Guerre mondiale \(1914-1918\) -- Histoire diplomatique

Key Person(s)

Zimmermann, Arthur; Carranza, Venustiano

Key Location(s)

Washington, D.C.; Mexico City; Berlin

Title

Zimmermann Telegram

Author(s)

Stefan Rinke

Article Type

Encyclopedic Entry

Classification Group

Events

Articles That Link Here

Wilson, Woodrow; Negotiating and Mediating Conduct of War; War Aims and Peace Discussions \(USA\); War Aims and Peace Discussions \(USA\); United States of America; Wilson, Woodrow; Governments, Parliaments and Parties \(USA\); Espionage; Latin America; Willingly to War. Public Response to the Outbreak of War; Historiography 1918-Today \(USA\); Room 40; Room 40; Mexican Revolution; Intelligence and Espionage \(Sweden\); Press/Journalism \(USA\); U.S. Intervention in the Caribbean; Press/Journalism \(USA\); Lusitania, Sinking of; Lusitania, Sinking of and German versus US Intelligence in Latin America